Date

ca. 1901

Primary Maker

Émile Gallé

Medium

Blown glass

Description

This ewer or vase is made of blown, cased, red and green speckled glass with a "satin" finish. It has two applied "seahorse" figures, one swirled around the bottom and the other swirled up the side with its tail forming a handle, and is tooled into four curves at the bottom forming feet. There are numerous annealing cracks throughout.
