Unplanned, Scattered Houses, Roanoke, Virginia

Date

ca. 1936

Primary Maker

Peter Sekaer

Medium

Gelatin silver print

Description

This is a vintage gelatin silver print of homes in Roanoke, Virginia. The houses are not built on a grid-based format and appeared scattered, however, the artist has composed the photograph to appear orderly. In the foreground, a narrow white path extends across the image. A two-story house centered in the foreground blows smoke from the chimney; in the background center a road cuts through the neighborhood and curves to the left. Mountains are seen in the far background.
