

Basic Detail Report

Worcester Plate

Date

ca. 1770-72

Primary Maker

Worcester Porcelain Company

Medium

Porcelain

Description

This is one of a pair of Worcester plates painted in the London workshop of James Giles. Each plate has a cluster of fruit and flowers. One plate also has a sprig of peapods, an eggplant, a blue convolvulus, rose auriculas, and a tiny purple sprig. The other plate has a sprig of purple rose hips and three other floral sprigs. Both plates have a gilt-edged, petal-shaped rim. Both have some central scratching and the rims have some speckling and wear to the gilding.

Dimensions

1 1/4 × 8 7/8 × 8 7/8 in. (3.2 × 22.5 × 22.5 cm)