Description

This work is a cire perdue (lost wax) glass diatreta (cage cup) vase with inscription around top edge. It features six large panels with raised latticework; in between the panels there are three grotesque male masks. Beneath the panels are six small cartouches with alternating monograms of Frederick Carder in script "FC" (x3) and "1958" (x3). The glass is clear with marbled cobalt blue swirls, interspersed with some opaque, lighter cobalt blue swirls. There are at least two small holes (about 1 in.) that have been filled in with plaster or other white material.
